

The soils were recommended by the florist that sold me the ZZ plant. Note, this is the 3rd pot I bought. Previous 2 pots were withered and yellow because I watered too much.

Notice the stems are withering... so sad... when I bought then they were so “solid”.

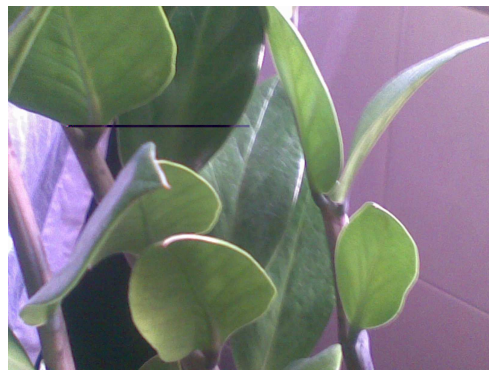

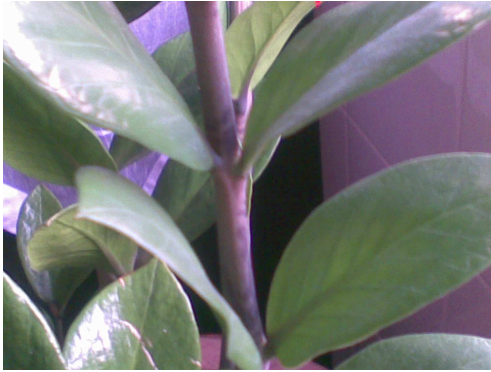

The picture on the left is from another smaller pot but using the same soils.

The leaves from the 3rd pot is still green....

More leaves from the 3rd pot....

I actually took a couple of leaves from the previous pot and try to grow them... but using the same soils too... this small pot I water it quite regularly but small quantity so that the soil can be slightly wet.

This is the 3rd pot sitting near window but no direct sunlight... it gets sufficient sunlights...
